

Are you suffering from recurring sinus infections or chronic sinusitis?

Has your doctor said you may need surgery? If so, are you interested in a potentially less invasive option?

The Rontal Clinic is conducting a clinical study of an investigational device used to treat chronic rhinosinusitis (CRS).

You may qualify if you are 22 years old or older and have not already had sinus surgery. All study related activities are done at no cost to you or your insurance and you may be compensated for time and travel.

If you are interested in learning more about this study, please call: 248.737.4030 for more information.